

Have a patient who may need home IV antibiotics?

What is OPAT?

Outpatient Parenteral Antimicrobial Therapy (OPAT) involves the administration of parenteral (intravenous) antimicrobial therapy without an overnight hospital stay. Patients are frequently transitioned to OPAT following an inpatient hospitalization.

What is the OPAT program at the Ann Arbor VA?

The Ann Arbor Veterans Affairs Hospital has a multidisciplinary OPAT program, consisting of Infectious Disease (ID) physicians, ID pharmacists, ID nursing, vascular access nursing, social workers, and community care workers, that works to provide appropriate monitoring and follow up for Veterans discharged from inpatient hospitalizations with IV antibiotic therapy. This team is crucial to ensure safety and appropriate follow up in the outpatient setting!
